COCOCOZY

RANGING FROM THE BOLD TO THE DEMURE, COCO DEFINES THE COCOCOZY STYLE AS ONE THAT IS “A LIVING, BREATHING STYLE THAT IS OPEN TO NEW IDEAS AND NEW CONCEPTS...ALWAYS.”

Nicknamed “Coco,” the elusive blogger loves anything to do with creating beautiful, functional spaces for the home. Though her style is aspirational, Coco believes that design and décor should be accessible to all.

A Los Angeles native, Coco leads a double life: an executive by day and an interior design blogger and home furnishings designer by night.

Coco began blogging in 2008 on COCOCOZY, her interior design blog. The aim was simple—to help provide inspiration for family, friends and strangers alike. Little did she know COCOCOZY the blog would become so popular.

With approximately 5 million page views per year, Coco has become a growing voice for those who love design. In early 2014, her followers on Facebook, Pinterest, Twitter, Instagram and RSS swelled to over 120,000 and the number continues to grow. In addition to the thousands who come to her blog on a daily basis, popstar Katy Perry and interior design guru Jonathan Adler both named COCOCOZY as one of their favorite interior design blogs in InStyle magazine.

On January 31, 2011, less than three years after the launch of the blog, Coco took her passion one step further as she introduced the COCOCOZY textiles collection to the home furnishings market. The collection features luxury pillows, throws, bedding, drapery and rugs all designed by Coco! Today, COCOCOZY has also expanded to include an assortment of home accessories.

construction

SISTERS SUSAN HABLE SMITH AND KATHARINE HABLE SWEENEY FOUNDED THE NYC-BASED TEXTILES COMPANY HABLE CONSTRUCTION IN 1999.

Katharine is the born sales professional and Susan is the artist. Together they combine practicality, sophistication, and timelessness into all of their work. Operating on the belief that the layering of color, texture and form inspires, Hable Construction creates bold and graphic designs dubbed with colorful, hand-drawn patterns that have become the hallmark of their aesthetic. Hable fabrics are created by skilled artists and artisans, employing traditional screen-printing procedures for their fabrics in an old New England factory. Their rugs have the same attention to detail whether made in North Carolina or abroad.

More than a decade after its inception, Hable Construction continues to grow. Today the company produces fabric and rug lines, fine art, has representation in interior design showrooms worldwide, enjoys international product distribution, and operates an online shop.

ABOUT KATHARINE

Born and raised in Corsicana, Texas, Katharine Hable Sweeney resides in Brooklyn, NY and is the entrepreneurial force behind Hable Construction. With an academic foundation in journalism and marketing, Katharine refined her expertise at Polo Ralph Lauren and Kate Spade prior to collaborating with her sister Susan on Hable Construction. Intelligent and determined, Katharine facilitated the formation of their business as the next logical step in a family of independent and hardworking women.

ABOUT SUSAN

Born and raised in Corsicana, Texas, Susan Hable Smith resides in Athens, Georgia, and is the artist and designer behind the boldly colored and hand drawn patterns of Hable Construction Design Studio. Susan has a fine art education with experience in collage, sculpture, welding, drawing, printmaking and painting. Most recognized by her sensibility with color and form, she's honed an aesthetic that's timeless. Inspired by travels to Italy, Asia and South America as well as her garden and community, Susan's work has a global appeal with an intimate presence.

INTERNATIONALLY-RENOWNED FABRIC DESIGNER KEVIN O'BRIEN'S SIGNATURE STYLE ECHOES THROUGH THE USE OF NATURAL THEMES AND MATERIALS.

As a painter, Kevin's goals are to add beauty to the world and meaning to his own life. Kevin believes that "with beauty and meaning, inspiration comes naturally, often, and from everywhere," so it was a natural transition when he made the switch from traditional painting to textiles.

Getting his start in the luxury fashion world selling hand-painted scarves 20 years ago, Kevin's line today includes handmade decorative pillows, bedding, curtains, scarves, throws and more. He employs a studio of artists who help create some of the most elegantly unique, plush, and beautiful textiles in the industry, most recently designing a line of bedding for Bed Bath and Beyond. Everyone from NYC art lovers to interior designers to high-end department stores are gaga over his beautiful artistry, and his following continues to grow among those that appreciate the finest fibers, handmade craftsmanship, and dynamic design sense.

"We create an authentic American product and a connection with customers that lasts a lifetime. When people think of braided rugs, they think of Capel."

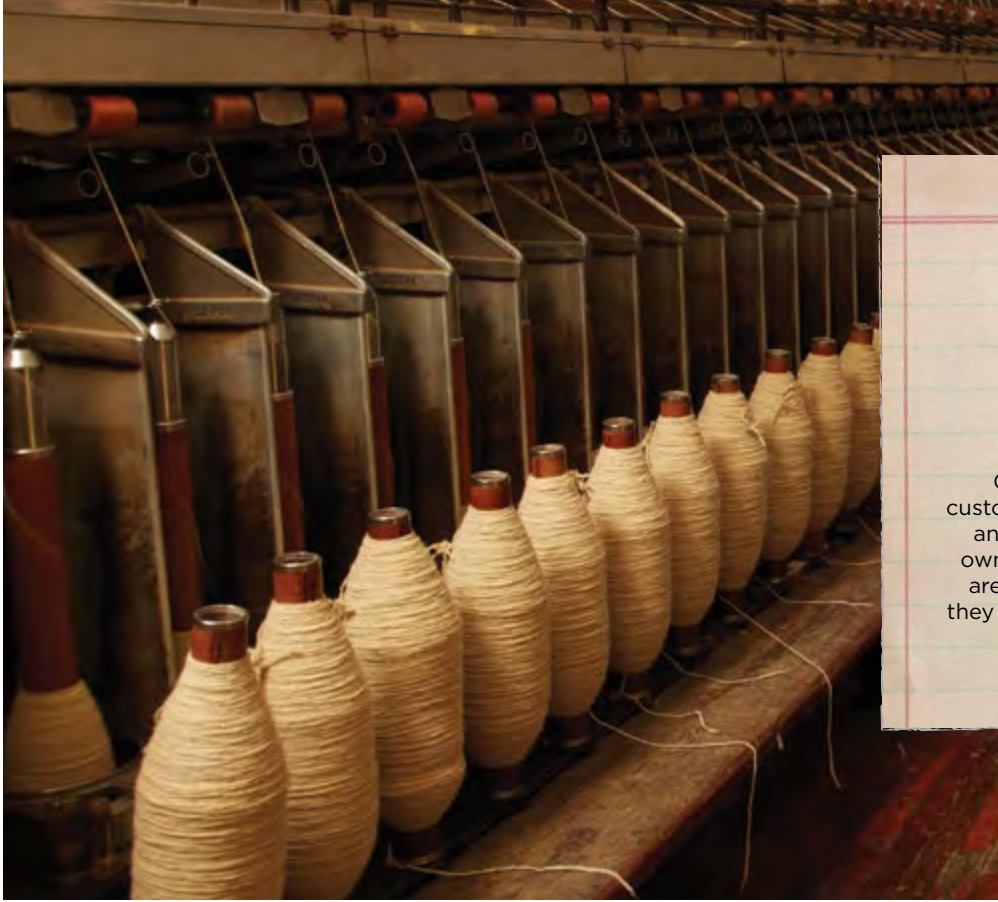

RICHARD CAPEL

A FAMILY BUSINESS IS BORN

Almost 100 years ago in Troy, North Carolina, A. Leon Capel ventured into a business that would become America's premier braided rug manufacturing company. What began as the Gee-Haw Plowline Company in 1915—a rope company that produced plow lines for mules—quickly transformed into a braided rug company after Henry Ford introduced the tractor—a mechanical mule!—in 1917. To change direction, he decided to purchase braiding machines and braided his rope materials rather than twisting them into rope. He then dyed the ropes many colors and stitched them together with a sewing machine in concentric circles that could create rugs as small or as large as needed.

One of Capel's oldest braided rug customers is L.L. Bean, a mail order, online and retail company that is also family owned. To learn more about how braids are made, check out the documentary they created in our North Carolina factory.

"Our grandmother Mimi in Texas had an incredible braided rug that we admired from childhood, so creating a contemporary version was a dream come true! The machines are humming in the old North Carolina factory where braided rugs have been made for years. We absolutely love this! A little bit of the past but something entirely new! Rooted in the history of craft, these braided rugs connect with the entire collection and are proudly made in the U.S." -Hable Sisters the allure OF FLAT WEAVE RUGS.

Generally reversible, our flat weaves are created on looms operated by hand with little or no pile. The thinness of these rugs makes them highly versatile for floor coverings or wall hangings.

Known for their amazing patterns and bold colors, flat weave rugs have become the must-have construction for designers and home owners. Why? They're affordable, easy to maintain, easy on allergies—and they're reversible. Unlike other rug constructions, flat weaves do not have pile. Instead, the rug's vertical yarns (wefts) are simply woven through the horizontal yarns (warps). With zero pile to deal with, they can slide into any space.

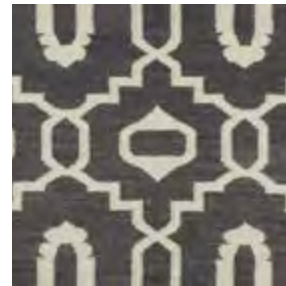

Flat weaves are often used in nurseries and playrooms because toys and furniture can easily slide across. Plus, they are reversible for two times the wear.

OF A HAND
KNOTTED RUG

The combination of the warp yarns strung on the loom and the weft yarns woven across the rug forms the foundation of a hand knotted rug. Varying the size of the warp and weft yarns will alter the quality of a hand knotted rug. Using small warps and wefts allows for more knots to be tied in an area.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The average rug weaver ties 6,000 knots in a day. Sometimes it takes a year or more to weave one 9' X 12' rug.
- Depending on the density and pile height, it takes 75-120 pounds of wool to make a 9' X 12' hand knot.
- After weaving, hand knotted rugs are washed twice and rinsed 8-10 times.
- For added clarity, yarns are hand sorted (penciled) to straighten lines and separate colors.

Placing pieces of newspaper on the floor is a good way to help visualize just how much floor will be covered by a rug.
To determine room-size rug dimensions, first measure the room. Then subtract three feet from the width and length to allow for a border of floor.

When considering what quality of area rug to buy, match the quality of the rug with the area of the home where it will be used. Is there a lot of traffic? If so, a rug that is tightly constructed (like our hand tufted rugs) with wool yarns that will stand up to constant use makes a good choice.

To determine the correct size rug for a dining room, add four feet to the length and width of the dining table to get the minimum size you should use. The rule of thumb is to allow at least two feet of rug to extend beyond the edges of the table to prevent chairs from falling off the rug when pushed away from the table. If the room size allows for a larger size rug, go bigger.

WOOL, CAPEL'S FIBER OF CHOICE.

The molecular structure of wool gives it certain characteristics perfect for use in floor coverings. Our fiber of choice—and in fact the world's fiber of choice for more than 12,000 years—wool has the ability to shed water because its surface is covered by a thin protective membrane. Since 80% of stains are water based, this natural protection built into the rug becomes very important. The high moisture content of the wool also adds to its natural flame resistance. Additionally, wool fibers have excellent elasticity and can stretch up to 30% more than their original length and bounce right back like a miniature spring. This natural elasticity means wool rugs can stand up to the day to day traffic of busy families.

PLAYFUL LOOP HOOK TEXTURE

Loop hooking is just like tufting, except the yarn loops stay intact. In a hooked rug, loops of 100% wool yarn are pushed through the rug's backing material by machine or with a hand-held hooking needle. But instead of being sheared, the loops are left alone, creating a knobby, embroidered look. For stability, a cotton duck cloth is latexed to the back of the rugs.
